OUR LONDON LETTER.

THE Right Hon. Mr. E. Forster, her Majesty's Secretary of State for Ireland, deserves warm admiration for the vigorous way in which he has at last dealt with the Land League pest in Ireland. Armed with the full authority of a united Cabinet, Mr. Forster no sooner arrived in Dublin on the morrow of the Council in Downing-street than he issued the warrants which led to the arrest of Mr. Parnell, and later to the apprehension of Mr. Sexton, M.P., Mr. O. Kelly, M.P., and Mr. John Dillon, M.P. It was typical of the Irish character that, after the late and the forthcoming Lord Mayors of Dublin had by heated language at an excited public meeting done the very thing that was calculated to rouse the populace to lawlessness, both should on Monday last have taken part in a deputation which waited on Mr. Forster to remonstrate against the presence of the Constabulary in the leading thoroughfares of Dublin on Saturday and on Sunday, when some rioting took place. Mr. Forster (with whom was Mr. Herbert Gladstone) offered the restorative of English Common Sense to these and other inflammable members of the Dublin Corporation. With good reason, he said:—

The information we had received assured us that there was very great danger that a mob might take possession of parts of the city and do great harm to peaceable people and to property and person, especially in Sackville-street. The police were doing their duty and acting according to instructions in preventing the mob taking possession of Sackville-street by clearing the street.

Proceeding strongly in the same direction, in order the better to preserve the peace of the Irish Capital, Mr. Forster was on Tuesday compelled to order Dublin to be "proclaimed:" and quiet citizens had to submit to some restriction of freedom in circulating of a night till lawlessness should subside.

Mr. Parnell, whose arrest has led to all this riot, meanwhile does not fare badly in Kilmainham Gaol. The day after Mr. Parnell was welcomed to Kilmainham by Mr. Paul Boyton and his fellow-prisoners, a Special Commissioner of the Standard interviewed the Leader of the Land League, and says of this relentless Home Ruler:—

A good-humoured warder, bearing his keys of office, and an official whom I took to be a secretary or under-secretary of the Governor, were present during the interview, but behaved with the fullest respect and consideration towards the prisoner. Mr. Parnell was deadly pale. He was, as usual, carefully dressed, and wore a small round smoking-cap. He appeared to be cheerful, and I may at once say that throughout the interview he abstained from any expression of hostility or resentment against the Government, or any member of it. The room into which he was removed yesterday is that lately occupied by Father Sheehy, and is about the best and most cheerful at the Governor's disposal. The ladies of the Land League and others have filled it with books and bright-coloured furniture, so that there is nothing to suggest the gloomy cell and clanking chains to which the American illustrated journals were pleased to represent the fragile form of the obstreperous priest. A bright fire was burning in the old-fashioned fire-place, and before this we sat. Mr. Parnell told me that he had expected ever since reading the Premier's speech at Leeds to be arrested, and that he had received certain intelligence of the determination of the Cabinet on Wednesday evening last. He had not attempted to evade capture, as he was aware that it would have been almost impossible.

Although troubled with a slight cold, he had in no way suffered from his imprisonment so far, but he anticipated that any long-continued imprisonment must have a very prejudicial effect upon one of his lively constitution and active habits. He thought it probable that he would be kept prisoner for some considerable period. The arrest, or, as he preferred to describe it, the return to the policy of coercion, was, he thought, due to the misinformation of the Goverment, who were under the impression that the League would prevent tenants with really good cases from going before the Court. On the contrary, he said, the League had taken up great numbers of cases of every description all over the country, and his only object had been to prevent the farmers from indulging in needless litigation, when, by watching the decision of similar test cases, they would be able to judge of the views of the Court about their own cases and make agreements accordingly. He affirmed that he had not committed the offences named in the warrants, and denied the legality of these documents. "I defy them!" exclaimed Mr. Parnell, "to show one speech of mine made within the Dublin district, the district named in the warrants, in which I have given such advice to tenants. I believe that Mr. Gladstone, by returning to this coercion policy, has seriously injured the prospects of his Act. . . . . But if the Government should suppress the League, as it is rumoured, I should in that case feel it my duty to advise the farmers to pay no rent whatever.

It will be seen that THE SHOWMAN has a ready answer to this last argument of Mr. Parnell.

PHILIP.

News in a Nutshell.

THE QUEEN AND THE PRINCE AND PRINCESS OF WALES.

THE QUEEN and Princess Beatrice returned to Balmoral on Saturday from the Glassalt Shiel, where they had been staying three nights. On Sunday Divine service was conducted in the castle by the Rev. Dr. Lee, of Paisley. Sir W.V. Harcourt arrived at Balmoral on Monday as Minister in attendance.

Her Majesty has experienced an early winter in Scotland. Six degrees of frost were registered at Balmoral on Sunday night.

The Prince and Princess of Wales, having undertaken to open the new dock at Swansea, on Monday left Paddington Station by special train at 11.10 a.m., in a Royal saloon-carriage built specially for the occasion. They were accompanied by the Duke of Beaufort, Earl and Countess Spencer, the Countess of Macclesfield, the Earl of Northbrook, Sir Dighton Probyn, and Colonel Clarke, Equerry to the Prince of Wales. The Prince and Princess of Wales opened at Swansea on Tuesday the spacious new dock, to which the Princess gave the name of "The Prince of Wales." As this was the first official visit of the Princess to the Principality, the occasion was made use of by the people to demonstrate in a remarkably enthusiastic manner their loyalty to the Royal family.

INDISPOSITION OF MR. GLADSTONE.

We regret to learn that Mr. Gladstone has been suffering from a severe cold. On Friday evening, last week, he travelled from London during the storm, and left for Hawarden by carriage. Whether he then took a chill is not known; but on Saturday he felt no ill results from exposure. During the day he went out into the woods with his axe, timber felling. The weather was very stormy, and in consequence of exposure he caught a cold and sore throat. The Premier took the precaution of lying in bed on Sunday and until mid-day on Monday, when he seemed much better; but his indisposition increased as the evening advanced. It is hoped, however, that he will have sufficiently recovered by the 26th to pay his promised visit to Lord Derby at Knowsley. According to present arrangements, after returning from Knowsley, Mr. Gladstone will remain at Hawarden until Nov. 6, when he leaves for London, to attend the Lord Mayor's banquet on the 9th. Lord Derby presided, by-the-way, on Tuesday at a meeting held in Manchester for the purpose of raising funds in aid of the Royal Infirmary of that city.

THE GOVERNMENT AND THE IRISH LAND LEAGUERS.

Several other important arrests have been made by the Government since Mr. Parnell was lodged in Kilmainham, including Mr. Sexton, M.P. for Sligo County; Mr. J. J. O'Kelly, M.P. for Roscommon; Mr. Dillon, M.P. for Tipperary; Mr. Quinn, Assistant Secretary of the Land League; and Mr. William O'Brien, editor of United Ireland. John R. Heffernan, of the Cork Land League, and several other Land Leaguers have also been arrested. Mr. Arthur O'Connor, M.P., and Mr. Healy, M.P., are also wanted.

There was much excitement in Dublin on Saturday. Cavalry and police patrolled the city, and the latter charged the mob, in obedience to their orders, to prevent any massing of people. The police were much exasperated by the jeers of the mob, who marched about cheering for the imprisoned Land Leaguers. There were similar scenes in Dublin on Sunday night. At Limerick, there was a military display to overawe the Land Leaguers, who had intended to hold a meeting to protest against the arrests. The demonstration was suppressed, and there was no collision between the mob and the forces until Sunday night, when a serious riot took place. After the police had been stoned and the barrack windows broken, the Scots Greys charged the mob with drawn sabres, and cleared the streets.

A number of persons were charged in Dublin on Monday with taking part in the riots in that city on Saturday and Sunday nights. They were mostly of the rough class, and were let off with fines of £2. A medical man, who was charged with assaulting the police, was committed for trial. Thirty persons were charged at Limerick on Monday with being concerned in the tumult in that city on Sunday night. The examination took place in private, owing to the disturbed state of the city. The rioting was renewed at Limerick on Monday night. After the military and constabulary had been stoned and hooted, the latter fired on the mob, slightly injuring a woman. There was also a renewal of the tumult in Dublin on Monday night.

Mr. T. P. O'Connor arrived last Saturday at New York; and was met on board the steamer City of Brussels by Land Leaguers and members of different Irish societies, who gave him a hearty welcome. He expressed no surprise at the news of the arrests in Ireland, but said that it might make him shorten his stay in America.

DUBLIN HAS BEEN PROCLAIMED.

This necessary act was on Tuesday afternoon decided upon at a special meeting of the Privy Council; and within an hour the formal proclamation was posted all over the city. It warns all loyal and peaceable citizens to remain within their houses after dusk until further notice; and cautions them that if they do not do so it will be at their own peril.

PUBLIC OPINION IN ENGLAND ON THE ARREST OF MR. PARNELL.

In Liberal and Conservative circles the policy of the Government continues to meet with earnest approval. At a meeting at Hanley last Saturday, Mr. Broadhurst, M.P., declared that, much as he regretted Mr. Parnell's arrest, he would rather a thousand such arrests than that the struggling people of Ireland should have withheld from them the benefits which the Legislature had conferred on them.

The members for South-East Lancashire opened a Liberal Club at Denton on Saturday afternoon. In the evening they addressed a large meeting held in Trinity Wesleyan school-room, at which Mr. Robert Leake declared that Mr. Parnell was an open and avowed rebel to the Government of this country, and said that rebellion was not the less to be attacked because it had no arms in its hands, but used all the subtle instruments that constitutional freedom would allow. The people of this country had been loyal to their traditions and institutions during the agitation which had taken place with reference to Ireland, but when they saw those institutions perverted, then a higher loyalty came into play—loyalty to the essential principles of justice, law, and order.

Lord Carlingford and Mr. Goschen on Tuesday gave expression to the same ideas.

GUITEAU'S TRIAL.

A Washington telegram states that Guiteau was brought to the Central Criminal Court on Friday, Oct. 14, under a strong guard, and arraigned for the murder of President Garfield. He pleaded not guilty. The prisoner's counsel asked for an adjournment of the trial, and put in an affidavit stating that he proposed to deny the jurisdiction of the Court, and defend the prisoner on the grounds, first, of insanity, and, secondly, that the wound inflicted upon the late President was not necessarily fatal. The Court fixed Nov. 7 for the trial, and directed that the question of jurisdiction should be argued before Oct. 30.

THE SULTAN AND EGYPT.

The Sultan is troubled by the dispatch of English and French ironclads to Alexandria, and has ordered Artin Bey to request explanations from the Ambassadors. In reply, his Majesty was informed that the sole object of the two Powers in the very mild "demonstration" they have made was to protect their subjects. The two ironclads, it was added (says a Reuter's telegram), would leave Egyptian waters "as soon as the departure of the Turkish Mission, which was sent to Egypt to bring about the pacification of the country, should prove that the fear of anarchy need no longer be entertained."

THE FRENCH IN TUNIS.

The French have largely reinforced their garrison in the city of Tunis. The flag of the Republic has been hoisted on the citadel over that of the Regency. A "severe engagement" has been fought between General Sabatier's column and an Arab force. The French only claim to have retained possession of the battle-field.

The French troops, under General Sabatier, have repulsed an attack by the Arabs, who, contrary to their custom, appeared in large masses, and were so severely defeated that they left eight hundred dead and wounded on the field.

THE BOERS IN THE TRANSVAAL.

From Durban the Standard correspondent telegraphs that the Boers have seized the waggons and oxen belonging to one Zeederberg, a Boer who remained loyal to England during the war. The Boers will have to ratify the Convention—or, Sir Evelyn Wood will know the reason why.

BRITISH EXODUS FROM AFGHANISTAN.

It is stated that the bulk of the British troops are returning from Southern Afghanistan, only one brigade remaining at Quettah.

REPORTED CAPTURE OF HERAT.

According to news received in Bombay, Oct. 15, from Meshed, Herat has been captured by the Ameer's Turkestan army, under Abdul Kudus Khan.

CETEWAYO.

The latest idea with regard to the civilisation of Cetewayo, the deposed King of the Zulus, has in it somewhat of a comic aspect. It appears that his captors have tried upon him the comforting effects of what Mr. Eccles described as "cool refreshing gin," but the dusky monarch prefers champagne, and he is very willing to sacrifice both, and drink ginger beer instead of gin, if the British representatives will only let him have the difference in cash. The Blue Ribbon Army of teetotallers at Hoxton have come to the conclusion that music alone hath charms to soothe this savage breast, and so they have just resolved to send out to him, by a missionary who is about to set sail for South Africa, a concertina.

THE POPE'S RECEPTION OF THE ITALIAN PILGRIMS

in St. Peter's last Sunday was very imposing. His Holiness, who spoke with much emotion, dwelt upon the danger which threatened Italy from the growth of irreligion. He denied that Catholics showed a want of patriotism, and described the present condition of the Pope in Rome, surrounded as he is by enemies and outraged in a thousand ways, as intolerable. The threatened anti-clerical demonstrations were prevented by a display of force on the part of the Italian Government.

RELIGION IN LIVERPOOL.

Liverpool has now a population of 552,000. Of these 63,576 were at church or chapel last Sunday morning. A similar census taken twenty-eight years ago, when the population was 400,000, showed a considerably larger attendance. On that occasion, 101,982 worshippers were counted, in contrast with the 63,576 enumerated on Sunday.

ENGLISH FARMERS FOR TEXAS.

The steamer Mississippi, of the Dominion line, sailed on Saturday last from the Mersey for New Orleans, with 230 farmers and their families, bound for South-Western Texas. The majority of them were from the North of England.

THE ELECTRIC LIGHT

could surely be employed to render darkness less visible in the carriages of the Metropolitan Underground Railway. A most important experiment in the lighting of railway carriages with the electric light has just been tried on the London and Brighton Railway. A Pullman car was fitted with twelve of Swan's incandescent lamps, the batteries being fixed underneath the car, and the lights being turned on and off by a switch arrangement. On the downward journey the lights were tried in the tunnels only, and the experiment was considered entirely satisfactory. Could not the Managers of the various companies who use the London underground lines prevail upon Mr. Faraday to exercise his scientific knowledge with a view to illuminate their trains as clearly as he does the Savoy Theatre with the electric light?

Law and Crime.

THE OLD BAILEY

was again in possession of the gentlemen of the long robe on Monday. Mabel Wilberforce applied to the Court to change the venue for her trial to Maidstone. She objected to be tried in London on account of the influence of the Charity Organisation Society. The Recorder explained that he had no power to grant her request, and her trial was ordered for Thursday. Augustus H. De Metz pleaded guilty to writing and publishing a false and defamatory libel. The prosecutors were the Directors of the Mersey Railway Company, and it was stated that they had no desire to press the case harshly against the defendant as he had taken this course. He was discharged on entering into his own recognisances to appear if called on. Charles Blackwell, a post-office letter carrier, pleaded guilty to stealing a letter, and was sentenced to five years' penal servitude.

LONG FIRM FRAUDS.

Charles Septimus Kent, forty; William Hayes, sixty; James Mayers, Alfred Leeson, and Thomas Robinson were indicted at the Old Bailey on Monday for unlawfully conspiring together by false pretences to defraud persons of various sums of money. Mr. Montagu Williams, Mr. Mead, and Mr. Avory prosecuted for the Treasury; Mr. Besley, Mr. Purcell, and Mr. Levy represented Leeson, Mayers, and Kent, who pleaded guilty; and the other two prisoners were undefended. The prisoners were found guilty, and, counsel for the defence having been heard in mitigation of punishment, the Recorder sentenced Leeson, Mayers, and Robinson each to two years, with hard labour; Kent to fifteen months' hard labour, and Hayes to nine months' hard labour.

THE CLERKENWELL OUTRAGE.

At the Central Criminal Court on Tuesday Alfred Heavens, lodging-house keeper, Clerkenwell-close, was charged with the wilful murder of Samuel Eagles, a verger. The prisoner, who bore the reputation of being a quiet man under ordinary circumstances, was very much put out by discovering that his wife had eloped with another man. This caused him to drink heavily; while in that condition he was seen by the servant with a revolver in his hand. She sent for a constable, and the prisoner, on seeing him, ordered him out of the house; the officer hesitated, and he fired at him twice, the second bullet hitting the deceased and causing his death. Prisoner was found guilty of manslaughter, and sentence was deferred.

JOHN HENRY NYE,

thirty-one, a labourer, was on Tuesday found guilty at the Central Criminal Court of the manslaughter of his mother, who was fifty-seven years of age. The prisoner, whenever he got drunk, ill-used his mother; and she was shown to have gone in fear of him, with many marks of his ill-usage about her, for a long time. Sentence was postponed.

A Diabolical Attempt to Destroy the Bothnia—Cunard mail steamer—was made on Sunday evening, a New York. Two men—strangers—obtained surreptitious access to the ship and saturated a carpet with phosphorus, which, on the friction of a foot, ignited. Four bottles of phosphorus and gasoline were found in the hull of the steamer.

The Plymouth Police have succeeded in arresting a gang of five professional burglars, three of them hailing from London and two from Manchester. They are suspected of being concerned in several housebreakings in Devonshire, and in a jewel robbery at Plymouth.

The Funeral of Lady Florence Chaplin, the wife of Mr. Chaplin, M.P., took place at Blankney on Saturday. Lady Folkestone presided at the organ, and played a voluntary as the cortège was passing into the church; and at the grave Colonel Ellis, representing the Prince of Wales, placed a wreath upon the coffin, and also one from Princess Louise. Others were also placed upon it, until it was completely covered with flowers.

H.R.H. THE DUKE OF CAMBRIDGE AT ALDERSHOTT.

Our Illustrations.

THE COMMANDER-IN-CHIEF AT ALDERSHOTT.

Not a moment too soon, H.R.H. the Duke of Cambridge has found it necessary to frankly tell the local commandants home truths with respect to the efficiency of the troops at Portsmouth, Plymouth, and Aldershott. This candid criticism cannot fail to increase the effectiveness of our Redcoats, and render them the readier to perform any duty the Country may demand of them—whether it be to teach a Foreign Power the might of England, or to remind an excitable peasantry that lawlessness (encouraged by whomsoever it may be) cannot be tolerated in any part of the United Kingdom.

On Saturday last a grand sham fight, in which the whole of the troops at the camp at Aldershott took part, was held at Cæsar's Camp, in presence of his Royal Highness the Field Marshal Commanding-in-Chief. Major-General Sir F. FitzWygram commanded a defending army, consisting of one regiment of cavalry, one battery of the Royal Horse Artillery, three field batteries, and the 1st Brigade of Infantry, including four battalions. This force, which was supposed to be engaged in covering the approaches to Farnham from the north, took up a series of positions on the high ground overlooking the Long Valley, and extending from Beacon Hill on the left to Hungry Hill on the right, to resist the attack of a superior force advancing by way of Norris Bridge. The northern or attacking army was commanded by Major-General his Royal Highness the Duke of Connaught, K.G., and was composed of two regiments of cavalry, one battery of the Horse Artillery, two field batteries, and the 2nd and 3rd Infantry Brigades, including seven battalions, which were concentrated on the north-east slopes of Norris Hill in time to commence operations at 10.30 a.m. The whole of the men were in field-day order, the attacking party wearing sprigs of heather in their head-dress. It was not until the contending bodies had approached rather too close to each other that the Commander-in-Chief ordered the "cease fire" to be sounded, the battle apparently being a drawn one. A march past on Bricksberry Plain brought the proceedings to a conclusion. The troops were drenched by the heavy rains during the operations. The Duke of Cambridge and staff left the camp in the afternoon by train for London.

MORE TROOPS ORDERED TO IRELAND.

Orders were at the beginning of the week received at Devonport to hold the first battalion, 13th, quartered at the Raglan Barracks, in readiness to embark for Ireland. The Assistance, troop-ship, embarked troops at Portsmouth on Tuesday for transit to Dublin, and was under orders to call at Plymouth on her way down Channel, and embark the 13th, or 1st Somersetshire Regiment, as it is designated under the new territorial arrangement.

An urgent notification was also received by the military authorities at Dover on Monday afternoon by telegraph from the War Office, directing the 1st East Surrey Regiment (the 31st) to be held in readiness to proceed immediately to Ireland.

We also learn that telegraphic orders were received at Chatham on Sunday night for the 52nd Regiment, commanded by Colonel de Burwell, to hold itself in readiness to proceed to Ireland. The regiment left Chatham on Tuesday morning, proceeding to Portsmouth for passage in her Majesty's troop-ship Assistance. The 2nd-18th Royal Irish Regiment will, it is expected, replace the 52nd Regiment.

KNELL OF PARNELLISM IN IRELAND.

ARREST OF MR. PARNELL, M.P.

We are glad to say the graceless leader of the Irish Land League has been "scotched." Mr. Charles Stewart Parnell, M.P., was arrested in Dublin early on Thursday morning, Oct. 13, under the provisions of the Life and Property Protection Act. He had only returned on the previous night from his residence in the county of Wicklow, and was to have left during Thursday forenoon for Naas to attend the Land Convention there. He put up at Morrison's Hotel, in Dawson-street, and was found in bed there when Superintendent Mallin and other members of the detective police called between eight and nine o'clock in the morning. The officers were armed with two warrants signed by the Right Hon. W. E. Forster, who arrived by the morning boat from Holyhead—one charging Mr. Parnell with inciting the people to intimidate others from paying just rent, and the other for intimidating tenants from taking benefits under the New Land Act. When the superintendent saw the hon. member for Cork and announced the object of his early visit, Mr. Parnell appeared surprised, but asked for some little time to dress and breakfast. The officer told Mr. Parnell that resistance would only lead to unpleasantness, which he was sure the hon. member would not wish to create. Mr. Parnell expressed his willingness to quietly accompany Mr. Mallin wherever he pleased. Mr. Parnell then dressed, and when ready was taken round by the back of the hotel, placed on an outside car with four constables, and driven direct to

KILMAINHAM GAOL.

The gaol was reached without any incident occurring, and Mr. Parnell was lodged in it by half-past nine o'clock; he preserved strict silence during the journey. On reaching the interior of the gaol he was warmly welcomed by the suspects confined there, the cheers being heard for some distance around the prison.

We give a view of the exterior of Kilmainham Gaol, which is not unlike the Cold Bath Fields Prison in London. Kilmainham is situated in a suburb of Dublin; and may now be called the safe Headquarters of the Irish Land League, seeing that the most active leaders are now incarcerated therein, and are mercifully kept out of mischief.

Mr. Parnell was soon interviewed by a reporter of the Freeman's Journal, and gave it as his opinion that his arrest was not likely in any way to cripple the organisation of the League. He did not think the Government contemplated the total suppression of the League. Mr. Parnell further stated that during his imprisonment he proposed to obtain leave from the governor to work in the carpenter's shop, which work he was fond of during youth. As the interviewer was leaving, Mr. Parnell said,

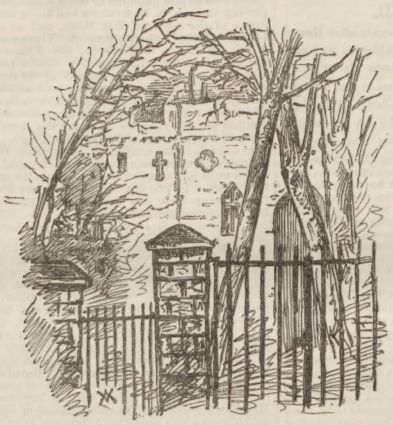

"I shall take it as an evidence that the people of the country did not do their duty if I am not speedily released."

MR. PARNELL EXPELLED FROM THE HOUSE OF COMMONS.

We now hark back a little in order to depict a passage in Mr. Parnell's Parliamentary career, which did him no credit, albeit he and his followers did pose as martyrs on the occasion. We illustrate afresh the withdrawal of Mr. Parnell by order from the House of Commons on Feb. 3 last, when in the most coolly insulting manner he and his colleagues moved "that the Prime Minister be no longer heard!" Why? Simply because Mr. Gladstone was about to take steps to suppress the intolerable "Obstruction," with which Mr. Parnell and Mr.

Biggar, among others, had impeded the business of the House. Captain Gosset and his assistants had also on that memorable night to remove from the House the following unruly Irish members:—

Mr. Dillon, Mr. Barry, Mr. Biggar, Mr. Byrne, Mr. W. Corbet, Mr. Gray, Mr. Healy, Mr. Dawson, Mr. Finigan, Mr. Gill, Mr. Lalor, Mr. Leamy, Mr. Leahy, Mr. M'Carthy, Mr. M'Coan, Mr. Marum, Mr. Metge, Mr. Nelson, Mr. A. O'Connor, Mr. T. P. O'Connor, The O'Donoghue, The O'Gorman Mahon, Mr. O'Sullivan, Mr. O'Connor Power, Mr. Redmond, Mr. Sexton, Mr. Smithwick, Mr. A. M. Sullivan, Mr. T. D. Sullivan, Mr. Molloy, Mr. R. Power, Mr. O'Shaughnessy, Mr. O'Donnell, and Mr. O'Kelly.

PARNELL'S PLATFORM.

Coming to a later passage in this year's diary of Mr. Parnell, we arrive at the Wexford meeting on Sunday, Oct. 9. The following choice extract from the virulent and impracticable speech he made then is from the Dublin print, entitled, by an Irish "bull," United Ireland:—

You have had an opportunity recently, many of you, no doubt, of studying the utterances of a very great man, a very great orator, a person who up to recently desired to impress the world with a great opinion as to his philanthropy and hatred of oppression, but who stands to-day the greatest coercionist, the greatest and unrivalled slanderer of the Irish nation that ever undertook that task (Cheers). I refer to William Ewart Gladstone (groans), and his unscrupulous and dishonest speech of the day before yesterday. Not content with maligning you, he maligns your bishops, he maligns John Dillon. He endeavours to misrepresent the Young Ireland party of 1848. No misrepresentation is too patent, too low, or too mean for him to stoop to. And it is a good thing that this masquerading knight-errant, this pretended champion of the liberties of every other nation, except those of the Irish nation, should be obliged to throw off the mask to-day, and to stand revealed as the man who by his own utterances is prepared to carry fire and sword into your homesteads unless you humbly abase yourselves before him and before the landlords of the country. . . . . I trust that as the result of this great movement we shall see that just as Gladstone, by the Act of 1881, has eaten all his own words, has departed from all his formerly declared principles, now we shall see that these brave words of this English Prime Minister will be scattered as chaff before the united and advancing determination of the Irish people to regain for themselves their lost land and their lost legislative independence.

MR. PARNELL'S IRISH SEAT

is Avondale House, Wicklow. A rough sketch of the entrance is given among our Illustrations. The Artist wrote:—"You may wander for hours about the beautiful demesne of the Parnells without finding aught but beauty or hearing anything save the call of the wood-birds. To get from Dublin to the country of the Parnells you take train at Harcourt-street, and travel thence to Rathdrum on the journey, which is a short one. The entrance to Avondale is insecurely guarded by a notice to the effect that the place is private, and that the proprietor will be inclined to prosecute any form of trespass. However, a very pliable gate and an empty lodge show but little resistance; and at last we stand right on the immediate native heath of Charles Stewart Parnell, the head and front of the entire Irish Party. Passing the house, which is a cheerless, bilious-looking pile, you dip down the hill and under the railway bridge, and then, keeping well within the sound of the purling stream, you come to the scene of Mr. Parnell's mining operations. Turning to the right from the Lion's Bridge, a few steps bring you to the first Meeting of the Waters, where the Rivers Avonbeg and Avonmore unite, and where the oak under which Moore is said to have sat and written, bears a legend of some originality. This is the very limit of the Parnell country, and the road ahead leads to the town of Newbridge, and further on the Wooden Bridge Hotel, at the second Meeting of the Waters,

> Where these four valleys part—
> The Gold-mine Vale and the Aughrim,
> And Ovoca and Glenart.

ARREST OF MR. DILLON, MR. SEXTON, AND MR. O'KELLY, M.P.'S.

Mr. John Dillon, M.P., who was appointed Mr. Parnell's locum tenens, was taken into custody on Saturday afternoon, being rearrested on the original warrant issued against him during last Session. Mr. Dillon, it will be remembered, was lately released from Kilmainham on account of the state of his health, and only reappeared in public a few days ago to rebuke Mr. Gladstone for his flattering eulogium of him.

Mr. J. O'Kelly, M.P., was also arrested on Saturday and lodged in Kilmainham. Mr. O'Kelly was returned for Roscommon in company with Dr. Commins at the last General Election, and since then has been a steady adherent of Mr. Parnell. The warrant on which he was arrested charges him with being reasonably suspected of treasonable practices as a principal. An additional warrant charging Mr. Parnell with the same offence has been served on that gentleman in gaol.

The other arrests on Saturday were those of Mr. William O'Brien, editor of the Land League organ, United Ireland, and lately on the staff of the Freeman's Journal, and Mr. Hefferman, a Cork Land Leaguer.

Mr. T. Sexton, M.P., was arrested in Dublin at three o'clock on the Friday afternoon, on two warrants charging him with being reasonably suspected of treasonable practices, and inciting others to intimidate tenants not to pay rent. He was lodged in Kilmainham Gaol. Born in 1848, Mr. Sexton was formerly on the editorial staff of the Nation newspaper, and is M.P. for Sligo county.

Mr. P. J. Quinn, secretary to the Land League since the incarceration of Mr. Brennan, was arrested on the Friday morning at his residence, 2, Vincent-street, Dublin, on a warrant charging him with inciting others to intimidate tenants not to pay their rents, and was also lodged in Kilmainham Gaol. Other arrests have been made.

Meantime, cavalry, infantry, and police are on duty guarding Kilmainham Gaol and its approaches. At Island Bridge Barracks, in the immediate vicinity of the gaol, a reinforcement of the 1st Royals has arrived. And the Irish Government took every precaution to preserve the peace and protect orderly citizens.

There is, however, much rejoicing in Land League circles over the successful escape to England of Mr. Arthur O'Connor, M.P. It is claimed that by his eluding the vigilance of the Government all the arrests are rendered comparatively worthless, inasmuch as it was only one week prior to his escape that all the threads of the Land League organisation were put into his hands, and arrangements made whereby he should exercise all the power and authority as to appointments, as well as make the official distribution of the funds. It is contemplated that once a week representatives from Dublin shall attend at the Holyhead offices, crossing by the morning steamer. Mr. O'Connor and Mr. Healy will there meet such members of the Dublin executive as come across; but if they make such speeches as they have been in the habit hitherto of making in Ireland, these mouthy Irishmen may find themselves quite as liable to arrest for sedition in England as they were in Ireland; and will probably find themselves face to face with an English Jury, having a clearer idea of right and wrong than Dublin Jurymen appear to have with regard to political charges.

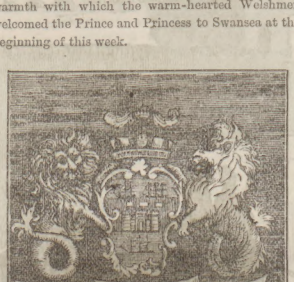

IRISH FOX-HUNTERS BOYCOTTED.

We trust sensible Irishmen will again allow Reason to have sway now that their mischievous and self-aggrandising mis-leaders have been placed where they can do no harm. The venomous and un-Irish agitation of the loquacious Land-Leaguers has kept from Ireland the gracious lady who set an example to our own Royal Family, and for more than one season zestfully enjoyed a hunting visit to Ireland. Irishmen are too gallant, too sociable by nature (when unwarped by evil counsel) not to be ready to offer her Majesty the Empress of Austria another hearty welcome. Why, then, should not some sincere lovers of their country energetically set themselves to work to discountenance the inhospitable practice of "Boycotting" fox-hunters illustrated on our front page? On this point, Mr. Parnell himself said some seasonable words at the Wexford banquet, on the 10th inst. Mr. Parnell then advised the people to be cautious in the use of the weapon Boycotting. He said it was an instrument of immense power, and should be only used on occasions of urgent general necessity, and never to gratify private malice or personal quarrels.

We regret to hear, however, that the Marquis of Waterford is about to break up his establishment at Curraghmore and quit the country. The disgraceful scene which took place on Oct. 6, when Lord Waterford and party went out with the hounds near Newtown Wood was even worse than was at first reported. Not only were the hounds stoned, but the hunters were pelted with mud and attacked with pitchforks. There is reason to believe, says a Times correspondent, "that the hunt will be broken up in other counties also." To this it may be added that Mr. Parnell himself went out hunting last season with Lord Waterford's hounds. In Kildare the Land League has given notice that if the Marquis of Drogheda, the Earl of Mayo, Lord Cloncurry, Mr John La Touch, or Mr. William Blacker, appear in the hunting field, the hunting will be stopped. These gentlemen are the principal landowners in the county, and are generally resident on their estates. We may add that on the 11th inst., at a meeting presided over by the Earl of Bessborough in Waterford, this resolution was passed:—"That the members of the hunt desire to express their indignation at the treatment Lord Waterford received, and to express their deep regret at his resignation of the mastership of the Curraghmore hounds." Lord Waterford, in returning thanks, said he did not intend leaving the country. He had resigned because mobs had been organised by the Land League to prevent him hunting. He hoped when the present madness had passed away the country would become tranquil; and he trusted that hunting would continue to be carried on in the country.

SWANSEA'S WELCOME TO THE PRINCE AND PRINCESS OF WALES.

The enthusiasm with which Liverpool recently received their Royal Highnesses the Prince and Princess of Wales was equalled by the exuberant warmth with which the warm-hearted Welshmen welcomed the Prince and Princess to Swansea at the beginning of this week.

THE ARRIVAL OF THE PRINCE AND PRINCESS

on Monday evening was the first stage in the festivities, and Swansea was in a tumult in consequence. Streets were blocked, bands playing, and there were illuminations and flags everywhere. The Royal train arrived punctually at Pyle Station, where the Prince and Princess and their suite alighted, and whence they were driven in open carriages to Margam, the seat of Mr. Talbot, M.P., the Lord Lieutenant of the county. Here they lunched and planted trees. After spending a couple of hours with the Lord Lieutenant, the Royal party resumed their journey, passing smoky Landore at dusk, and running at the back of the Swansea Railway Station at a slow pace. Dense crowds had gathered to catch a glimpse of the passing train, both in Swansea and along the sandy drives of the Swansea Bay shore, and to cheer a hearty welcome to the passengers. There were only a few policemen to be seen, the Prince having specially requested that no fuss should be made. Notwithstanding this the streets of Swansea had been crowded all the afternoon, and at the temporary siding, opposite Singleton Abbey, thousands of persons, many of them from a long distance, were waiting for the pleasure of seeing the Royal party drive through about fifty yards of road. When the special train arrived at a quarter to seven o'clock, an enthusiastic outburst of cheering, which lasted until the carriages had driven into the grounds, took place. It was now quite dark, but the gas-lights shone upon the Prince and Princess, who bowed their acknowledgments.

SINGLETON ABBEY

is the residence of the Dowager Mrs. Vivian, but her son, Mr. H. H. Vivian, M.P., was host for the occasion. The house is not large, but it is a charming country seat, well situate and rich in ancient carvings, tapestries, Swansea and Dresden china, and old armour. The Prince of Wales and the Princess had a fine suite of rooms, with the oak room as bed-room, in which the furniture is of rarely-carved black oak. The Princess's boudoir was of pale blue silk damask, with which even the walls were covered. From their rooms the Royal visitors could look out upon a glorious park of some four hundred acres, with views of the bay and the Mumbles beyond, and in another direction upon the bold hills on which the Duke of Beaufort's picturesque ruins of Oystermouth Castle (delineated in our Engraving) are situated.

THE GALE AT SWANSEA.

The terrible gale, instead of respecting the preparations for the visit of the Prince and Princess of Wales, seemed, as it tore down from the hills and in from the sea, to single them out for special attack. The gale, in point of fact, roared across South Wales with hurricane force; and, since Venetian masts and the light gear of which triumphal arches and grand stands are made are intended for fair weather, the result was disastrous. Venetian masts lay degraded in the mire till the time came for their resurrection; and, direst calamity of all, a spacious marquee, erected by the Mayor (Mr. Jenkins) at considerable expense, was levelled to the ground. In this temporary structure the Mayor, in conjunction with Mr. Yeo, chairman of the Swansea Harbour Trust, was to have given a grand ball, and the Prince and Princess of Wales were to have been the chief guests. The wreck, however, was complete, and the ball, with the company much enlivened in numbers, had to be held in the music-hall of Swansea.

SWANSEA'S DOCKS.

This is a remarkable year for dock extension; and now Swansea must be added to the British ports whose commerce has outgrown its harbourage. Swansea, it must be remembered, is the metropolis of copperdom. The district was known by its smelting works in the days of Elizabeth, though the marvellous progress of Swansea itself is due to the later developments of the industry. Chief amongst modern copper kings are the Vivians, and the father of the present head of the house, whose statue is erected in the lower part of the town, was the first member for the borough created by the great Reform Bill, and remained so during his life. Swansea is also a tin-plate head centre. It smelts lead and makes zinc, and it has silver, nickel, cobalt, patent fuel, iron, and steel works. Let the smoke of busy Landore testify to the same, and let the verdureless heights inclosing Swansea with a grimy rampart bear witness to the chemical effects of sulphuric acid, arsenic, sulphate of ammonia, distilled wood, oxalic acid, superphosphate, alkali, and the like, by which the community lives and enlarges. The fact that there are 500 collieries within a radius of forty miles of Swansea sufficiently represents the export side of the account.

To meet these growing requirements of the last thirty years there has been provided two docks and an outer tidal basin. The North Dock, opened in 1852, covers fourteen acres, with a lock 55 ft. by 100 ft., and a depth of 25 ft. of water over the sill at spring tides. The South Dock, opened in 1859, is a trifle larger. The larger dock, opened on Tuesday by the Prince, is the easternmost. A half-tidal basin, with entrance and gates, will be added at some future period. The entire cost will be at least £300,000. Go it, Swansea!

Sports and Pastimes.

BEND OR BEATS IROQUOIS.

If the First October Meeting fell below the average in point of sport, ample amends were made for it by the Second October just past—the Champion Stakes alone, to say nothing of the Cesarewitch (won by the American horse Foxhall) and Middle Park Plate (won by Lord Rosebery's Kermesse), being sufficient to render it memorable in the history of the British Turf. Once again, too, the old familiar cry of "Bend Or wins" rent the air as the voices of excited thousands proclaimed the victory of the Derby and the defeat of the American Derby winner in the contest for the Championship of the year. The race for the Champion Stakes on Oct. 13 also served to illustrate once more

FRED. ARCHER'S SPLENDID HORSEMANSHIP.

Iroquois scarcely looked as well as at Doncaster, and by no means so blooming as at Epsom and Ascot, and, more than all, he contrasted unfavourably with such a grand looking horse as the Derby winner of 1880, Bend Or. The handsome Scobell's excellent performance was the surprise of the race, for he not only beat Iroquois out of second position, but caused Archer to bring all his abilities in the saddle into play to secure the prize for the Russley chestnut. The first thing to rivet the attention of the company in the neighbourhood of the Stand was Scobell, whose speed for a mile is undeniable, romping along in front of his field as the descent of the Bushes Hill was made; the next, the palpable fact that Iroquois was beaten at the foot of the hill, followed almost immediately by the uneasy movements of the rider of Bend Or, who was apparently beaten in the dip. Archer, however, set to exactly as he did in the Derby, and drove Bend Or along to catch Scobell as he drove him along under the whip to catch Robert the Devil at Epsom. Making the best use of his horse's fine turn of speed, he pulled upon the leader at every stride, and, catching Prince Soltykoff's colt half way up the ascent to the finish, beat him cleverly by three parts of a length, the one mile and two furlongs being a little too far for Scobell to be seen at his best. The excitement and cheering were tremendous. Bravo, Archer!

THE CAMBRIDGESHIRE.

Considerable betting has taken place on the forthcoming Cambridgeshire Handicap, many horses being freely supported one day and knocked out the next, owing to their running last week; and among these may be enumerated Bend Or, Scobell, Lord Chelmsford, and the Corrie filly. It would not be a surprise if Bend Or failed to finish his preparation satisfactorily; but, inasmuch as Incendiary, in the same stable, is first favourite, and has been backed for large sums of money, the Russley party have another, and, according to his Goodwood running, a dangerous second string to fall back upon.

SANDOWN PARK AUTUMN MEETING

is being held on Thursday and Friday, when there will probably be some important market operations connected with the Cambridgeshire Handicap, which will be run on Tuesday next.

FOOTBALL.

A match between representatives of Lancashire and Sheffield was played on Saturday last at Blackburn, under the Association code of laws. The Lancashire lads were declared victors by five goals to two.

In fine, seasonable weather, Wasps v. London Athletic Club was played on Saturday at Putney. The London Athletic Club played three men short. Having won the toss, the Wasps had the wind in their favour for the first half, and at the close of the game the Wasps were hailed victors by a goal and three tries to nothing. The losers touched down many times in self-defence, and the winners once.

A West Kent team visited Blackheath on Saturday to contest the Marlborough Nomads. West Kent did not score, and the Marlburians were victors by four goals and two tries to nothing.

A Rugby Union match was played between the Richmond and Royal Indian Engineering College Clubs, on the ground of the latter at Cooper's-hill, on Saturday. Richmond won by a try (obtained by Ladell) to nothing.

Huddersfield v. Manchester was played last Saturday on the grounds of the former club, Fartown, and when "no side" was called the Huddersfield were victors by one goal, three tries, and six touch downs to one try and one touch-down. The visitors suffered through the deficiency of their back play, Mr. Hornby being unable to begin the football campaign till to-day.

A football association was on Oct. 3 organised at a largely attended meeting of the students of the Harvard University, U.S. It was voted to send the team to Montreal, P.Q., to play the Britannia Club, and they were to meet the Montreal Club at Cambridge, Mass., Oct. 20, and the Ottawa Club at Boston or Cambridge during the fall.

On Saturday Isaac Turley, a member of the Cosely F.C., whilst engaged in a match on the ground of the Walsall Perseverance Club, broke his leg. He was taken to the Cottage Hospital, Walsall, and detained there as an in-patient.

A match between Ayrshire and Edinburgh took place at Kilmarnock, before a large attendance, on Saturday. When time was called victory had sided with Ayrshire, who scored five goals.

SHAW'S ELEVEN IN AMERICA.

The English professionals who left England on Sept. 17 on a cricket tour through America, Australia, and New Zealand were two days late in reaching New York from Queenstown, owing to the dreadfully bad weather the Alceria encountered on her voyage out. They played their first match at Philadelphia, commencing on Saturday, Oct. 1, two days after landing on American soil. The English Eleven played Twelve of Philadelphia, and beat them with great ease in a single innings with 104 runs to spare. Ulyett and Midwinter hit tremendously hard for their respective scores, and put on 128 runs while they were together. Shaw and Scotton contributed largely to the total of 277. The most successful English bowler was Peate, who in Philadelphia's second innings took seven wickets for 21 runs. Charles Newhall, the well-known fast bowler, took six English wickets for 71, and J. B. Thayer bowled the other four for 46. After the Philadelphia match Shaw's team played at New York against Thirteen of the St. George's Club, and then were to revisit Philadelphia, to be opposed by Eighteen of the whole of the United States.

THE LONDON SWIMMING BATHS

at this season of the year offer amateurs good opportunities of judging the progress or retrogression made in swimming. In the endeavour to swim swiftly and win the prizes offered at the aquatic entertainments, style is still too frequently sacrificed to ungainly efforts to obtain a high rate of speed. No matter how leaky and unseaworthy are the motions of these hurried swimmers, they will persist in "pegging away," heedless of the obvious fact that their unstudied and unskilful strokes frequently retard rather than accelerate their progress through the water. Much improvement in this respect was observed at the recent entertaining gala of the spirited Whitehall Swimming Club in the Thames Floating Bath, near the Charing Cross Railway Bridge—a gala which proved that the Whitehall is one of the most deservedly flourishing of London swimming clubs; and it is to be hoped a useful lesson in this direction will be given in the same bath next Monday evening on the occasion of the Professional Swimming Association's first aquatic fête.

A remarkably neat swimmer and an experienced teacher of the art, T. Attwood (who will be remembered by many as the clever "Man Fish" at Cremorne, and as Professor Beckwith's assistant) gave an entertainment in the Lambeth Bath last Monday. The same evening, one of the many contests promoted by Mr. J. G. Elliott, the indefatigable secretary of the London Swimming Club, was decided in the Golden-lane Bath. This was a 120-yards handicap for the Clayton Challenge Cup; and it was for the second time won by W. Henry (Captain of the Zephyr Swimming Club), who had 13 sec. start, and beat G. S. Ibbs by a yard.

RACING MEN

kept their hands in at the beginning of the week with the Four Oaks Park meeting near Birmingham, and with the Croydon Meeting in the South.

MR. P. LORILLARD'S

Sly Dance, Parole, and Barrett, each won races at Jerome Park on Oct. 7.

ANOTHER WATERLOO VICTORY.

Harry Audsley, of Waterloo, on Monday won the City and Tower Hamlets Regatta in the Thames very easily, beating Michael Donovan and Charles Phelps in the final.

THE MADGE BEATEN.

A cablegram dated New York, Oct. 13, runs:—The Scottish yacht Madge was beaten at Newport yesterday by the sloop Shadow. As the Madge heretofore has won all the races in which she entered, this result caused a great sensation. She was distanced 23 min. in a ten mile race.

THE SEVENTY-FIVE HOURS PEDESTRIAN MATCH

at the New York Aquarium was won by Hartman, beating Krohne by sixteen miles. The winner's record was 255 miles.

ANGLO-AMERICAN PRIZE-FIGHT.

Articles of agreement have been entered into for a prize fight between Frank White, of New York, and George Rhodes, of England. Each man deposited a deposit of 250 dols. The match is for 2500 dols. a side and the Feather-weight Championship of the world. The fight comes off on Nov. 16. The men are to fight at catch weight, and must be in the ring between the hours of six and ten a.m., or the one absent forfeits the battle money.

DUBLIN ATHLETES

(leaving Parnellites to their whisky and water) are keeping the game of healthy recreation alive with hare and hounds, bicycling, and football—very much as athletic young London does on a Saturday afternoon.

MR. C. ABSOLON'S JUBILEE.

We are glad to note that Bell's Life does not forget at the close of another cricket season to chronicle the continued success of that prime old cricketer, Mr. C. Absolon. Bell says:—"This is the fiftieth year that he has appeared in public; and his name, as one of any note was played at Wallingford with the old Albion, Oxford, on Cowley Marsh. He has been a great supporter of the game, and during his career has brought a great number of good players out. Mr. Absolon was born at Wallingford, on May 30, in the year 1817, and he has appeared on the London and suburban grounds for forty-two years. This season he has played in forty-seven matches, and scored 924 runs, taken 250 wickets, and been sent first to the wicket thirty times, and has run all his runs like a "boy." We hope to have the pleasure of chronicling his doings for many years to come. He has played in forty-seven matches, and in sixty-one innings has scored 924 runs, and took 250 wickets, was not out five times, bowled twenty-one, run out eight, and caught twenty-seven."

AT BRIGHTON,

the two-mile bicycle race for the Ashbury challenge cup was won last Saturday by A. E. Saunders.

CIVIL SERVICE BICYCLE CLUB.

At Surbiton, on Saturday, this club decided several races:—One Mile Members' Handicap—H. S. Thompson, 145 yards start, 1; T. W. Howard, 80 yards, 2; R. J. Reece, 20 yards, 3; time, 3 min. 5 sec. One Mile Open Race—C. E. Liles, 1; A. P. Shaw, 2; time, 3 min. Ten Miles Club Championship Race—R. J. Reece, 1; T. W. Howard, 2; A. P. Shaw, 3. Reece went to the front in the last mile and rode in the winner by 10 yards; time, 34 min. 20 sec.

DEATH OF THE CHAMPION LIGHT WEIGHT.

James Ireland, the champion light weight, who was recently engaged in a most determined fight at Middleton, near Birmingham, has died from its effects. At the time the police pounced upon the ring Ireland, who had fought over sixty rounds in an hour and a half, escaped by retreating to the furniture waggon which had conveyed him and his backers to the ground. Ireland safely reached his residence in Ward-street, Birmingham, but two days later he complained of illness, and had since been confined to his bed with acute inflammation of the lungs, to which he succumbed on Saturday afternoon. On Monday James Carney, who described himself as a light-weight pugilist, was charged with causing the death of James Highland. He was remanded.

SOUTHPORT SKATING RINK.

Southport, the enterprising Lancashire Watering Place, is ever increasing its attractions. Said to be the largest ice skating rink in the world, Southport Glaciarium was reopened on Saturday, the day being partially observed as a holiday by the inhabitants. A procession was formed to the rink, which the Mayor declared opened. Afterwards there was a banquet and a brass band contest. In the evening there was a torchlight parade, during which a lorry on which the torches were stored took fire and was burned to cinders, amid considerable excitement.

The value of the Cesarewitch Stakes, won by Foxhall, was £1387. The Middle Park Plate, won by Kermesse, was worth £2817.

William Macdonald received £2000 from the "party," and another thousand in presents, for riding Foxhall in the Cesarewitch.

Foxhall, by his victory in the Cesarewitch, has incurred a penalty of 14 lb. in the Cambridgeshire, for which race his weight is now 9 st.

E. Martin rides Lucy Glitters in the Cambridgeshire, Weston Don Fulano, Archer Bend Or, Wood Retreat or Toastmaster, and Luke Elizabeth.

The annual golf-match for the championship, which is played alternately at St. Andrew's, Musselborough, and Prestwich, came off last Saturday at Prestwich. The weather was very stormy and wet, and therefore good scores were impossible. Robert Fergusson, of Musselborough, stood first—having made the three rounds in 170 strokes, thus securing the trophy. James Anderson, of St. Andrew's, who gained the trophy three years ago at Prestwich, was second with 173 strokes, and Cosgrove was third with 177.

The Irishman.

[We need hardly say we cordially support the Government in the effective steps they have taken to restore the reign of law and order in Ireland; and that we, therefore, totally disagree with many of the opinions of "The Irishman," who obliges us with his views on current events. Nevertheless, it may be serviceable to read our Irish Correspondent's letter—administering the necessary grain of English salt.—Ed. P.I.P.]

WHOLESALE ARRESTS.

It is quite unnecessary on my part to chronicle the wanton arrests throughout Ireland, under the Coercion Act, during this and last week. There is no doubt now that the Government has determined to put the full vigour of the Act into force and crush the agitation in the country. Mr. Gladstone had no reply to offer to Mr. Parnell's Wexford speech—that is, a reply in words—and the only course open to the Premier was to prevent Mr. Parnell from putting him again in a corner. Mr. Gladstone was naturally wroth that the Irish people did not receive his child—the infant Land Act—with open arms. "Timeo Danaos et dona ferentes," quoted Mr. Parnell, with a suspicion born of past experiences. The Irish people accepted his wise counsel; and preferred to see and examine, before fully receiving the Premier's child—if it contained any useful traits, and if—when it grew strong—it would be of any benefit to them.

Surprise at the arrests has now given way to a feeling of anxiety. It is no exaggeration to say that the arrest of Mr. Parnell came upon the people like a thunderclap; but the emotion soon passed away, and people awaited with bated breath for the next move of the Government.

It may be safely averred that Mr. Parnell's arrest has of nearly all the moderate section of the Irish People from Mr. Gladstone; and I do not hesitate in stigmatising it one of the greatest of the Gladstone Government blunders. Thousands of people who had hitherto only a passive sympathy with the national cause have been awakened from their lethargy by the acts of the past fortnight, and are rushing to join the League, determined to fill the gaps caused by the incarceration of their fellow-countrymen. It is not to be imagined that because Mr. Parnell and a few of his trusty followers are in prison the Land League will languish and die. No. Previous to the arrests, it depended upon every man's political tendencies whether he joined the League or not. Now the feeling through the country is that it is the imperative duty of every Irishman who is possessed of a spark of manhood to rally round its standard and protest, by every constitutional means possible, against English coercion and misrule.

A heavy blow has been struck at the heads of a very powerful organisation; but to reach the roots, and eradicate the germs of discontent, the Government will have to strike at the hearts of the people.

The present Government has not the people of Dan O'Connell's time to grapple with now, who will be cowed into submission by the imprisonment of their leader or leaders. No! every Irish peasant to-day has his own views on political and social matters; all Irishmen to-day are banded together with firmer bonds than ever knitted their hearts together in former times; and neither imprisonment, nor coercion, nor military law can crush their spirit.

These wanton outrages upon the constitutional liberties of innocent men cannot fail to sink deep into the hearts of the people, to rankle there till a fitting opportunity arrives to break forth intensified a hundredfold for their long suppression.

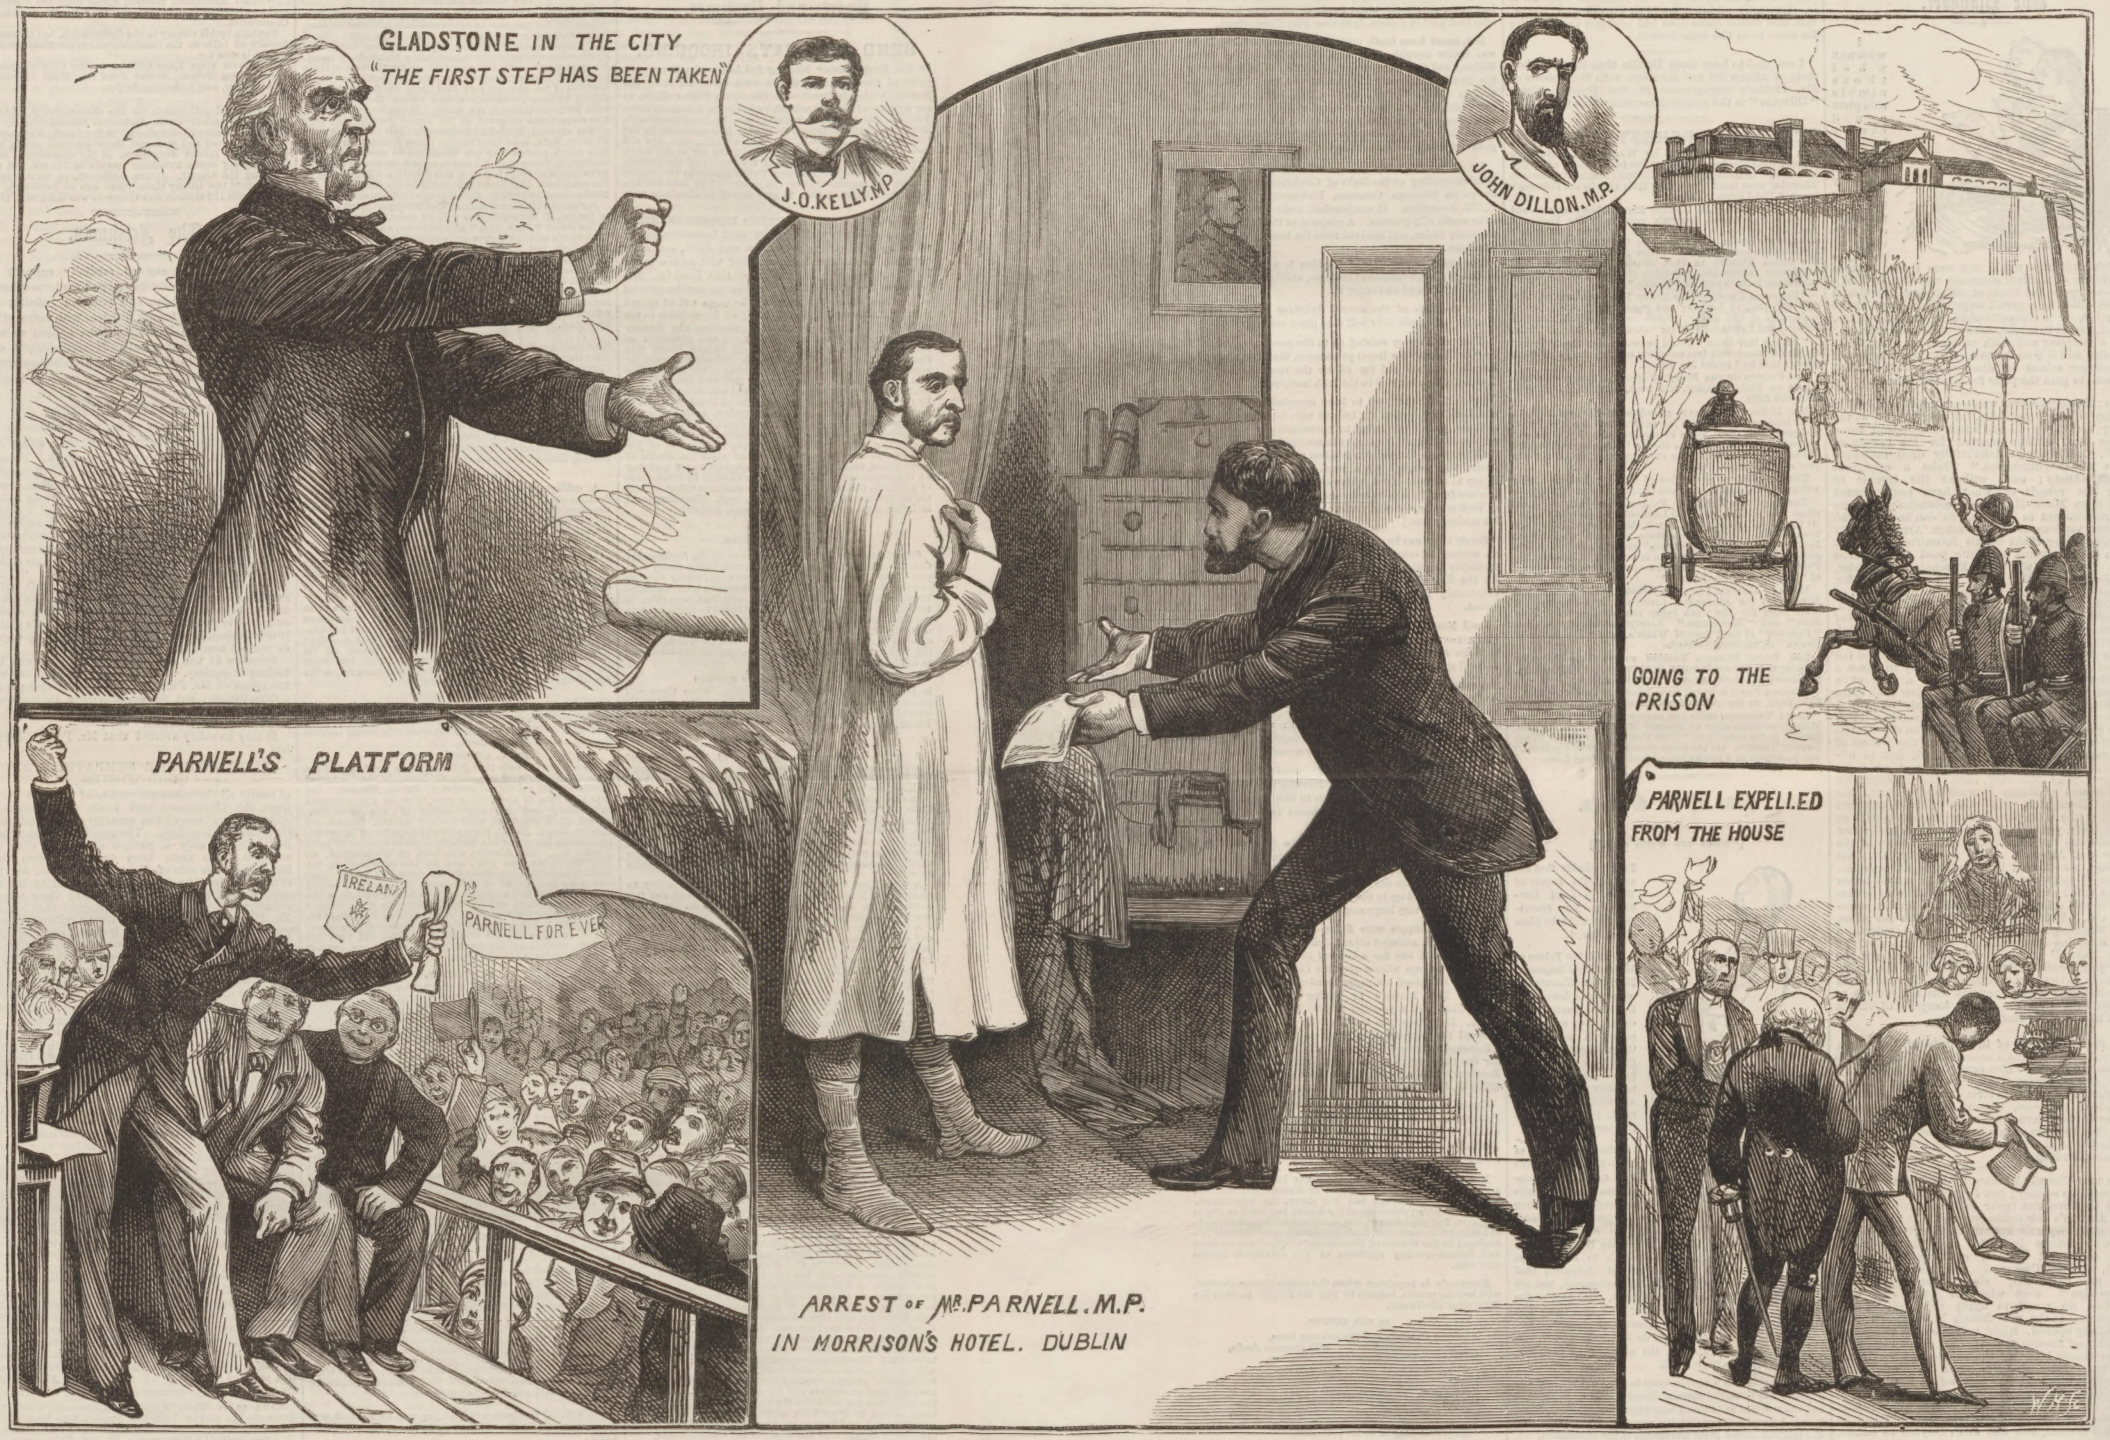

The whole country is in a

and the wildest rumours are afloat. In every direction largely attended meetings are protesting against the arrests, and the sole topic of conversation is the unwise policy of Mr. Gladstone. In Dublin, business, it may be said, is at a standstill; crowds obstruct the streets; police parade the thoroughfares; and from its appearance the Irish Metropolis seems in a state of siege.

The Playgoer.

I WONDER what those nimble adapters and canny businessmen who make an easy fortune by introducing a French master of melody to English audiences would say were I to give them the address of a gifted composer who has by him a three-act opera, the merit of which should command success either as a grand terpsichorean opera at the Alhambra, or a romantic comic opera at the Globe, Strand, Opéra Comique, Savoy, or Comedy Theatre? Such a composer and such an opera are in existence in Paris; and it is on the cards that one of the best of our younger school of dramatists will climb Mont Parnasse to gain the prize for musical London.

Yes; Music wherever we go can now be enjoyed in London. Herr Meyer Lütz, for example, has at the Gaiety dished up all the latest Music-Hall tunes in the most artistic manner for the benefit of Mr. F. C. Burnand's delightfully droll burlesque drama of "Whittington." Take a cosy seat at the Gaiety; and, without the trouble of going the rounds of what have been termed "the most Music-Hall, most melancholy" places of entertainment in London, you can hear new and improved versions of all the songs 'Arry is nightly humming every night at his favourite haunt. A dream of beauty and exquisite good taste is Miss Kate Vaughan, the City Merchant's daughter, as clothed by M. Alias from the charming designs of M. Pélotet, the Monsieur Worth also of "Claude Duval" and "Princess Toto." Indeed, the costuming, or, rather, undressing, generally of the comely damsels who disport themselves through "Whittington" may rank with the most brilliant of Gaiety productions. Miss Farren is Dick; and the liveliest Dick that ever was seen: ready to dance a breakdown, join in a rally, or sing a song at a moment's notice. Quip and pun follow each other with Burnand ("worth two in the bush") rapidity. You are wafted from the City to Morocco in a jiffey, in the goodly company of Mynheer Van der Skuttle (whom Mr. E. W. Royce portrays as the jolliest of Dutchmen) and mercurial Dick; and, lost in admiration of the radiant ballet, the fantastic polka of pretty Miss Moncrieff, and the choregraphic performances of Misses Howard and Hewitt, Miss Phyllis Broughton, and Miss Connie Gilchrist (glowing like a Mephistopheles in crimson silk) as Lord Ladida, you have scarcely time to wonder how they all came there in the gorgeous Palace of the Emperor of Morocco. Here, by-the-by, Mr. John D'Auban, scored well in a grotesque dance as Enchanter of Serpents, but would have scored better had he acted the cat in the very scene of scenes wherein the Imperial rats needed a nimble, acrobatic cat. Returning to London with his Alice, Dick Whittington arrives in time to exhibit a most diverting panorama of "Ye Shows of Ye Lorde Mayor," which won a special call for the clever young caricaturist who painted it, Mr. Harry G. Banks. The witty author, Mr. Burnand, was enthusiastically called for; but was not present to bow his thanks for the hearty reception of what is bound to be a g eat success.

Mr. Samuel French, of the Theatrical Emporium, 89, Strand, has sent me a seasonable shilling "Guide to Selecting Plays," which cannot fail to be of use in many family circles that "go in" for amateur theatricals as a favourite form of autumn and winter recreation. One-act, two-act, three-act for any number of characters, from a couple to a dozen and more, may be selected in a moment from this capital little book, at the same time that the drift of the play is ascertained.

The new Comedy Theatre in Panton-street may move some to ecstacy; but I prefer to say that Miss Violet Cameron was never so bewitching as she is in M. Audran's new comic opera of "La Mascotte." As is now very well known, La Mascotte is a fair girl who brings luck to every household in which she lives; and an enchanting Mascotte, indeed, is Miss Cameron. She takes the lucky part to perfection, sings charmingly the "Glou-Glou" duet with her lover, and will, doubtless, do much to supply the lack of the "Mascotte" to the new theatre M. Audran's opera successfully opened. Right welcome back to London is Mr. Lionel Brough as the droll King of Piombino, which monarch is one of the funniest of his funny creations. Trust Mr. Henderson to have plenty of pretty chorus girls; and admit the talent of M. Gaillard as the peasant lover of the irresistible Violet, and of Miss Minnie Byron as the winsome Princess, and the ability of Mr. Henry Bracy as Prince Fritellini, and Mr. J. P. Haynes as Rocco, and you will acknowledge "La Mascotte" the hit it is. Capitally adapted by MM. Farnie and Reece, this new comic opera does but sharpen the appetite for more from the same source.

I am glad to hear from Dublin that the disturbed state of affairs did not interfere with the success of Mr. Irving's engagement at the Gaiety, where "Olivette" is the reigning favourite this week.

STAGE AND ORCHESTRA GOSSIP.

THE PRINCE AND PRINCESS OF WALES and suite were present last Saturday evening at the performance of "The Mascotte" in the new Comedy Theatre; and on the previous Thursday were much pleased by their visit to the Princess's to see "The Lights o' London."

THE Era says that Mr. George Rignold has been retained to play Mr. Wilson Barrett's part in "The Lights o' London," at the Princess's, during the latter gentleman's absence at Leeds, superintending the production of the forthcoming pantomime of "Little Red Riding Hood" at the Grand Theatre in that town. Mr. Rignold will previously relieve Mr. Augustus Harris again by undertaking the latter's part in "Youth."

"ROBINSON CRUSOE," the Drury Lane pantomime, bids fair to equal in humour and "go" the last Christmas comicality at Old Drury, where and when MM. Arthur Roberts and Fawn started their "Gracious goodness!" duet.

"LITTLE BOY BLUE" would be more promising at Covent Garden if there were less wavering in the councils of "the powers that be" round Mr. Crowe.

THE PROFITS OF THE NORWICH MUSICAL FESTIVAL, which closed on Friday evening, last week, amount to between £500 and £600.

MR. D'ARCY STANFIELD, grandson of the great R.A., after being with Mr. Toole for twelve months at the Folly, and previously three years in the provinces, left Plymouth on Saturday, the 1st inst., in the Orient liner Cuzco, for Melbourne, where he has an excellent engagement for one year at the Theatre Royal.

THE Birmingham Daily Post of Monday had an article welcoming the Carl Rosa Opera Company back to the Royal.

THE CREAM OF DRAMATIC FARE is enjoyed by our great cities with a relish equal to London's sharpened appetite. At the Royal, Manchester, to wit, Mr. Toole has this week been rousing the Cottonopolitans to mirth with "Paul Pry," "Ici," "The Upper Crust," and "Toole in the Pig-skin." Mr. W. J. Hill has been making them laugh at the Prince's with "Flats;" and the Queen's boasts a revival of "The Streets of London."

MADAME MODJESKA began a fortnight's engagement last Monday at the Alexandra, Liverpool, as Adrienne; her other roles for the week being the heroines of "Frou Frou" and "Heroine." Liverpool, furthermore, has "Patience" at the Prince of Wales's; and "The Sultan of Mocha" at the musical Court.

THE OPERA COMIQUE Theatre reopened on Saturday evening with the comic opera, in three acts, by Messrs. W. S. Gilbert and Frederic Clay, "Princess Toto."

ADELINA PATTI is to sail from Liverpool on Saturday for New York, on her tour through the United States.

LYDIA THOMPSON made her reappearance in London on Monday evening, after an absence of three years, as Mrs. Smylie, in the comedy of "Nine Points of the Law," at the Royalty Theatre. On the same evening "Out of the Hunt" was presented in a reconstructed and condensed form.

Chat of the Gossips.

["WHAT THE World SAYS."]

IT is probable that the visit of the Prince of Wales to Lord Rendlesham for covert-shooting will take place about Nov. 6.

H.R.H. the Prince of Wales lately honoured Mr. Frank Miles with an order for a drawing of the three young Princesses; they are represented in one group, the youngest occupying the centre position. I hear that the drawing is a very charming one, and that the Princess is much pleased with the likenesses.

Princess Edward of Saxe-Weimar knows how to gracefully supplement her illustrious husband's military duties at Portsmouth. Interesting herself actively in the Military Compassionate Fund, which relieves the destitute families of soldiers passing through the garrison, she has gone the beneficent step further of taking premises in which to lodge those widows and families of our gallant defenders that may have temporarily to remain at Portsmouth, but are without sufficient means of subsistence. One half of the world knows not how the other half lives, and those who wish to forward a philanthropic movement which does real good unostentatiously could not do better than send subscriptions to Major Tullock, the secretary of the Compassionate Fund at Portsmouth.

At a great ball in a certain town in Scotland not long ago a young and beautiful married English lady of high rank had the misfortune to lose a very important article of dress. It was hurried away out of the room in a hand-box, and the incident caused great merriment to the bystanders.

The Duke of Cambridge, during his stay at Portsmouth last week, gave some blunt words of advice to the officers who took part in a sham fight near Fort Cumberland.

But, apart from frank criticism on this point, the Duke was rather amiable, and, with Prince Edward of Saxe-Weimar and their respective staffs, attended balls given by the North Lincolnshire Regiment and the Royal Highlanders (Black Watch), both affairs being remarkably successful, the fashion, beauty, and chivalry of Portsmouth attending them, as they were considerately arranged so as not to clash. The picturesque uniform of the Highlanders gave a charming effect to their ball-room.

Sir Garnet Wolseley was actually agitated last week. While attending on the Duke of Cambridge at a review of troops on Southsea Common, Portsmouth, he lost his K.C.B. decoration. It was jewelled, and consequently said to be worth fifty guineas. A corporal of the Engineers was the lucky finder, and received from the hero of Coomassie a sovereign.

The probable possessor of Clifden is a gentleman who has made a large fortune in business, and knows thoroughly well how to spend and enjoy it.

The marriage of the second daughter of Sir William Knollys to Captain Grey will take place next month.

If any doubt ever existed as to the penchant entertained by "Dubliners" for Royal personages, that doubt must be dispelled at once and for all by the reception accorded Prince Teck on his visit to the Irish metropolis.

Prince Teck is believed to have accepted the Presidency of a Land Corporation for Ireland with a capital of several millions, the object being to purchase large estates and reclaim waste lands, especially in the district of Connemara, dividing these estates into lots and reselling them on easy terms, thus establishing a peasant proprietary without injury to anyone.—[But where are the "several millions" to come from? Whatever the good intentions of the Duke of Teck may be, the said "millions" can hardly come from his modest purse.]

Surely there can be no truth in the startling rumour that an economical craze has led the Admiralty to decide on introducing American salt beef into the Navy in substitution for the English beef that is cured at Deptford? A more vexatiously irritating innovation could hardly be conceived.

Lord Northbrook's proposed new changes in the Royal Marines are apparently greatly exercising the Lieutenant-Colonels of that distinguished corps, and certainly not without good reason.

A cause célèbre is likely to occupy the attention of the law courts before long, an action for breach of promise having been commenced by a young lady of good position, whose sister's name figured prominently in an Irish law court a short time ago. The young lady in question has travelled far in pursuit of the faithless one, and has at last brought him to book.

I am sorry to hear that M. de Neuville's noble picture, "The Defence of Rorke's Drift," is to be allowed to go out of the country, having been purchased for a museum at Sydney.

We have a new plunger from across the Atlantic; I suppose a natural adjunct of the American invasion. A Mr. Walton came over from New York in the spring on purpose to back Iroquois for the Derby, and has so manfully stuck to his colours that up to the present time he is credited with having taken a very large sum of money out of the Ring.

Some big cheques were flying about Newmarket last Thursday, and, amongst others, John Osborne, I hear, was presented with one for a hundred thousand pounds! The donor was a large winner over the Cesarewitch, who subsequently dispensed his paper broadcast, and increased his stud at Tom Brown's by giving Mr. W. Blenkiron 1500 guineas for a yearling filly by Scottish Chief out of Hilda. Everybody has heard of the £3000 Johnny Daley received for winning the Derby on Hermit, and of the "thousand to nothing" Archer and Constable were put on for the Cesarewitch and Cambridgeshire by the owner of Rosebery. But even the latter sum was eclipsed by the £3000 W. Macdonald received for riding Foxhall.

One of the largest winners over the Cesarewitch is Mr. Humphries, a well-known hard rider in Ireland, and a master of staghounds in the county of Cavan. He backed Foxhall so long ago as July at 100 to 1, and threw in, en dit, for £15,000.

Not the least attractive of the many handsome women amongst the recognised habituées of Newmarket were the Viscountess Castlereagh and her sister, the Viscountess Helmsley, as they drove about the Heath last week in gig or dog-cart. Equally admired, too, was the skilful coachmanship of another fair charioteer, Lady de Clifford, who "boiled" her husband in the neatest of donkey-carts behind the smallest and fastest-trotting specimen of the Jerusalem species ever seen.

Everybody is inquiring when the young pigeon-shooter, who has the means, intends to pay the £12,000 he owes the Ring since Goodwood.

IN THE AUTUMN.

Amongst the arches of the autumn trees,
Like sombre aisles fretted with crimson shade,
Midst leafy jewels tumbled by the breeze
Along the golden carpet of the glade,
My queen and I rode forth one autumn day,
Yet unforgotten—unsurpassed alway.
Love, who had sung not for the summer's sake,
Oped his sweet lips now summer-tide was o'er,
Vexing the forest echoes, that did make
Exquisite song in us for evermore.

THE GREAT GALE OF FRIDAY, OCT. 14.

Numberless fatal disasters on land marked the course of the furious gale of the past week. But our coasts, as usual, had the saddest tales to tell. There were of which 105 were British, fifteen being steamers, reported during the past week, making a total of 1364 for the present year, or an increase of 364 as compared with the corresponding period of last year. The increase on the week was 104. The approximate value of including British £6,000,000. Eighty-five vessels, chiefly British, were lost off the coasts of the United Kingdom during the gale, only twenty being wrecked in the early part of the week in different parts of the world.

THE LIVES LOST AND MISSING NUMBERED 138.

WRECK OF THE CYPRIAN STEAMER.

The Cyprian steamer, of Liverpool, laden with a general cargo, for Genoa, was totally wrecked on the Friday night, two miles from Nevin, on the Welsh coast. Eight of the crew were saved. There were thirty to forty men on board. The Cyprian left Liverpool on the previous day. She was a vessel of 1433 gross tons, of iron construction, built at Liverpool in 1864, and owned by the Cyprian Steam-Ship Company. She was commanded by Captain John Alexander Strachan. The steamer was driven nearer and nearer the land, and when about two miles off Nevin she struck on a rock with considerable force. When the perilous position of the vessel was realised by those on board the distress signals were exhibited. There were a couple of hundred people on the beach, but the flag was blown in the direction of the crowd, so that they could not see that the flag was intended as a distress signal. It was just about five o'clock when the ship struck. Most of the men jumped from the steamer into the sea, in many instances having life-buoys round their wrists. It was thought that the whole of the crew, with the exception of two firemen, jumped from the steamer into the sea. These two, it appeared, became unnerved, and went down with the vessel. It was stated that the captain had a life-buoy, but, seeing a boy who had stowed himself away on board the ship at Liverpool without one, he told him to take his (the captain's), as he could swim the distance to the shore. The captain, chief officer, and boatswain were seen afterwards struggling in the water, the boatswain endeavouring to catch hold of the captain to sustain himself, but the whole three perished. It was impossible even for the best swimmer to battle successfully against such a surf, and those who were saved were pitched on to the beach by the waves. In every case the survivors had life-buoys. The engineer's boy reached shore holding an oar, whilst a life-buoy encircled his waist. The cook, who perished, was in the galley just before the crew left the steamer; he was also accompanied by a boy. When the survivors reached the shore they were caught by the people on the beach, and taken eventually to three farmhouses, where they were kindly treated. The stownway boy was too ill to return to Liverpool with the others, and remained behind at the farmhouse.

THE WELSH COAST

was abundantly strewn with wreckage of vessels, while a large number of craft went ashore. At Milford about a dozen vessels were aground; and at Holyhead and vicinity two schooners, a brig, and a smack were also ashore close to the beach. On the east side of Holyhead two schooners, the Pickwick and Saxon, were driven ashore, and the former broke up and her cargo was washed on to the beach. The Liverpool vessel, Rose, which was proceeding to Dublin with a cargo of cement, went ashore on the south side of the island at Holyhead, after breaking three anchors. The crew were saved.

The weather in St. George's Channel was terribly severe, one of the West African mail-steamers being detained out-side the Mersey "bar" for twenty-four hours. The Helvetia, one of the great ocean liners, was so knocked about by the tremendous sea in the Channel, her forecastle being stove in, with injury to a number of the crew, that she put back to Liverpool on Saturday. The Inman steamer City of Rome behaved splendidly in the hurricane, and put into Queenstown.

DESTRUCTION OF A HERRING FLEET: EIGHTY LIVES LOST.

A terrible disaster caused by the storm is reported from Berwick. All the fishing-boats at Eyemouth, Burmouth, and Coddinghaan were at sea, and were caught in the gale. Several bodies have been washed ashore, and very few of about two hundred fishermen, it is believed, are saved. The wrecks of several vessels strew the coast. Some of the herring-boats have been rescued by the coastguard, but it is feared that the fishing industry of Eyemouth will be completely shattered. A later telegram says it was known that eighty or ninety Eyemouth fishermen were drowned.

GALLANT LIFE-BOAT SERVICES.

During the heavy gale the steamer Laura Fell, of London, coal laden, from Newport to Cork, exhibited signals of distress while off Burry Port, in response to which the Pembrey life-boat of the National Life-Boat Institution proceeded to her, and rescued the crew of seven men. Subsequently, with the help of the steam-tug Tiger, of Llanelly, the steamer was taken safely into Llanelly harbour. Great skill and courage were displayed by the coxswain and crew of the life-boat in the performance of the service, which occupied them seven hours, and was rendered in a frightful gale, accompanied by heavy blinding showers.

The schooner Favorite, of Quimper, Captain Eugene Rio, bound from Pont l'Abbé to Swansea with potatoes, made for Padstow harbour for shelter during the heavy gale, but was driven on the Doom Bar Sand. The City of Bristol life-boat, Albert Edward, belonging to the National Life-Boat Institution, and stationed at Padstow, was launched to her assistance, and, with great difficulty, saved the crew of three men and a boy.

Valuable life-boat services were also rendered during the storm by boats connected with the Royal National Life-Boat Institution at Ramsey, Isle of Man, where four men were saved; at Lowestoft; at Burnham, Somerset, where three men were saved; from Southend, where four men were saved; at Holyhead, where four men were saved; at Ramsgate, where fifteen men were saved; and at other places. The ship Ganges was wrecked on the Goodwin Sands on the Friday night in a gale of wind and dangerous sea. Her crew of seventeen men were gallantly saved by the North Deal life-boat Mary Somerville. The Boys' Illustrated News seasonably illustrates a Life-boat's Rescue in this week's Number (date, Oct. 19), and quotes an apropos verse, which we repeat for the benefit of our charitable readers:—

Nota bene. Would anyone befriend
The noblest institution of the land,
Let him or her a money-order send
To Richard Lewis, 14, John-street, Strand.

Podge-Podge.

THE SHROPSHIRE "MYSTERY" CLEARED UP.

A letter has been received at Church Stretton from Sarah Duckett, who is married and living in Worcestershire. This has presumably put an end to the ghostly correspondence in the Daily Telegraph.

THE MARQUIS OF LORNE

sails for England on the 22nd instant—H.R.H. Princess Louise will be glad to hear.

CLOUD IN NEW ZEALAND.

The Hon. John Bryce, the native Minister, has had an interview with the Maori Chief Lewhiti, but the result was unsatisfactory. So said a Wellington telegram of Oct. 14. It is to be hoped Lord Kimberley will be less sleepy over this Colonial storm-cloud than he was with regard to the Boer Trouble.

ASCENT OF MONT BLANC.

More ascents of Mont Blanc have been made during the past season than in any previous year. Between July and October sixty-four tourists, of whom nineteen were French, seventeen English, and six Americans, gained the summit of the mountain. Three were ladies, natives respectively of England, France, and Switzerland.

WATERSPOUT AND LOSS OF SIXTY-FIVE LIVES.

Intelligence from Constantine announces that a waterspout has passed over the Msilah district. Sixty-five persons lost their lives.

Sad, but True.—The History of Mankind convinces us that disasters are in reality stepping-stones for higher progress. To prevent disastrous diseases from poisoned blood use Eno's Fruit Salt. No one can have a simpler and more efficient remedy. By its use the poison is thrown off, and the blood restored to its healthy condition by natural means. I used my Fruit Salt freely in my last attack of fever, and I have every reason to say it saved my life.—J. C. Eno, Hatcham Fruit Salt Works, S.E. Caution.—Examine each bottle, and see the capsule is marked "Eno's Fruit Salt." Without it, you have been imposed on by a worthless imitation. Price 2s. 9d. and 4s. 6d. Sold by all Chemists.—[Advt.]

Valuable Discovery for the Hair.—If your hair is turning grey, or white, or falling off, use "The Mexican Hair Renewer," for it will positively restore in every case grey or white hair to its original colour, without leaving the disagreeable smell of most "restorers." It makes the hair charmingly beautiful, as well as promoting its growth on bald spots where the glands are not decayed. "The Mexican Hair Renewer" is sold by Chemists and Perfumers everywhere at 3s. 6d. per Bottle.—[Advt.]

The enormous sale of Horniman's Pure Tea by some 4000 Agents (Chemists, &c.) at once testifies to the high approval it has realised for its combinedly strong, delicious, and invigorating qualities.—[Advt.]

GOOD NEWS FOR THE MUSIC-LOVING READERS OF THE "PENNY ILLUSTRATED PAPER."

GRAND PRESENTATION MELODEON.

Patented 1878.

MESSRS. CAMPBELL and CO.,
MUSICAL INSTRUMENT MAKERS,
103, TRONGATE, GLASGOW
(ESTABLISHED 30 YEARS),

have resolved, as the best means of introducing and making popular their newly improved Musical Instrument, "MELODEON," to present to the Readers of this Paper one of their beautiful instruments at the bare cost of production. This fine-toned instrument has two full sets of reeds, giving it a combination Organ and Celestial Tone, with a drawstop to change to either tone at pleasure. It has also a newly improved bell accompaniment, which is capable of producing the most charming effects, and a double leather bellows strongly clasped at the corners; also centre clasps to prevent the bellows from twisting. The frame of the instrument is also handsomely trumpeted and gold ornamented, and is, upon the whole, in many respects vastly superior to the best-made Concertina or French Accordion, and is easily learned that anyone with no knowledge of music could, with an hour's practice, play upon it the most popular airs of the day. This fine-toned Instrument, from its portability and elegance, is specially adapted for the Parlour, the Coast, Yachting, and Excursion Parties. No home should be without one. Makes a charming present to old or young.

CUT OUT THIS, AS IT MAY NOT BE REPEATED.

IMPORTANT NOTICE.

This first-class Musical Instrument is not to be confounded with the worthless Toys advertised under the following deceptive names, viz.:—"Bohemian Musical Box," "Tyrolese Musical Box," "Swiss Fairy Organs," &c. OUR MELODEON is a genuine Musical Instrument, and is honestly and correctly described in this Advertisement; and anyone not satisfied on receipt of the Instrument can have their money at once returned on application.

CAUTION.

All Campbell's Genuine Patent Broad-Reed Melodeons have their Trade Mark, a "Boar's Head," on two silver plates, and also a silver plate with their Name and Address on the top of each instrument, without which none are genuine. As we have no Branch Establishments or Agents anywhere in Great Britain, the readers of this Paper should be careful to see that they are not imposed on by various designing parties who have stolen part of our well-known advertisement and applied the same to the sale of their worthless trash for the purpose of deception.

NO DECEPTION HERE.—TESTIMONIALS.

The Editor of the London "Weekly Times" says:—

"The Melodeon.—No instrument invented of late can equal in power and sweetness the Melodeon. In external appearance it is a work of art, and in mechanism—for simplicity of handling, and for purity and variety of note—there is no instrument with which it can be compared. We are therefore not surprised to learn that Messrs. Campbell and Co., of 103, Trongate, Glasgow, who first introduced this instrument, have had an enormous sale, and continue to find all their resources taxed to supply the demand made upon them. This is the reward of honestly fulfilling the description advertised of their beautiful instrument. No lover of real music could find fault with the Melodeon."

"2, Seaton-terrace, Ayondale-road, Peckham, London,
"Sept. 13, 1881.

"Dear Sirs,—I have received the Melodeon this evening safely. It gives me entire satisfaction, and I am highly pleased with it. Whoever purchases one in the same way will find they have a great bargain and a treasure. I shall be happy to recommend it where I can.—I am, yours very truly, Henry Jno. Tavson."

"Dovedale House, Blockley, near Moreton-in-Marsh,
"Worcestershire, Sept. 15, 1881.

"Sir,—I received the Melodeon quite safe, and am very pleased with it; it gives me great satisfaction. I shall show it to all my friends. Thanks for your prompt attention.—I am, yours truly, G. Owens."

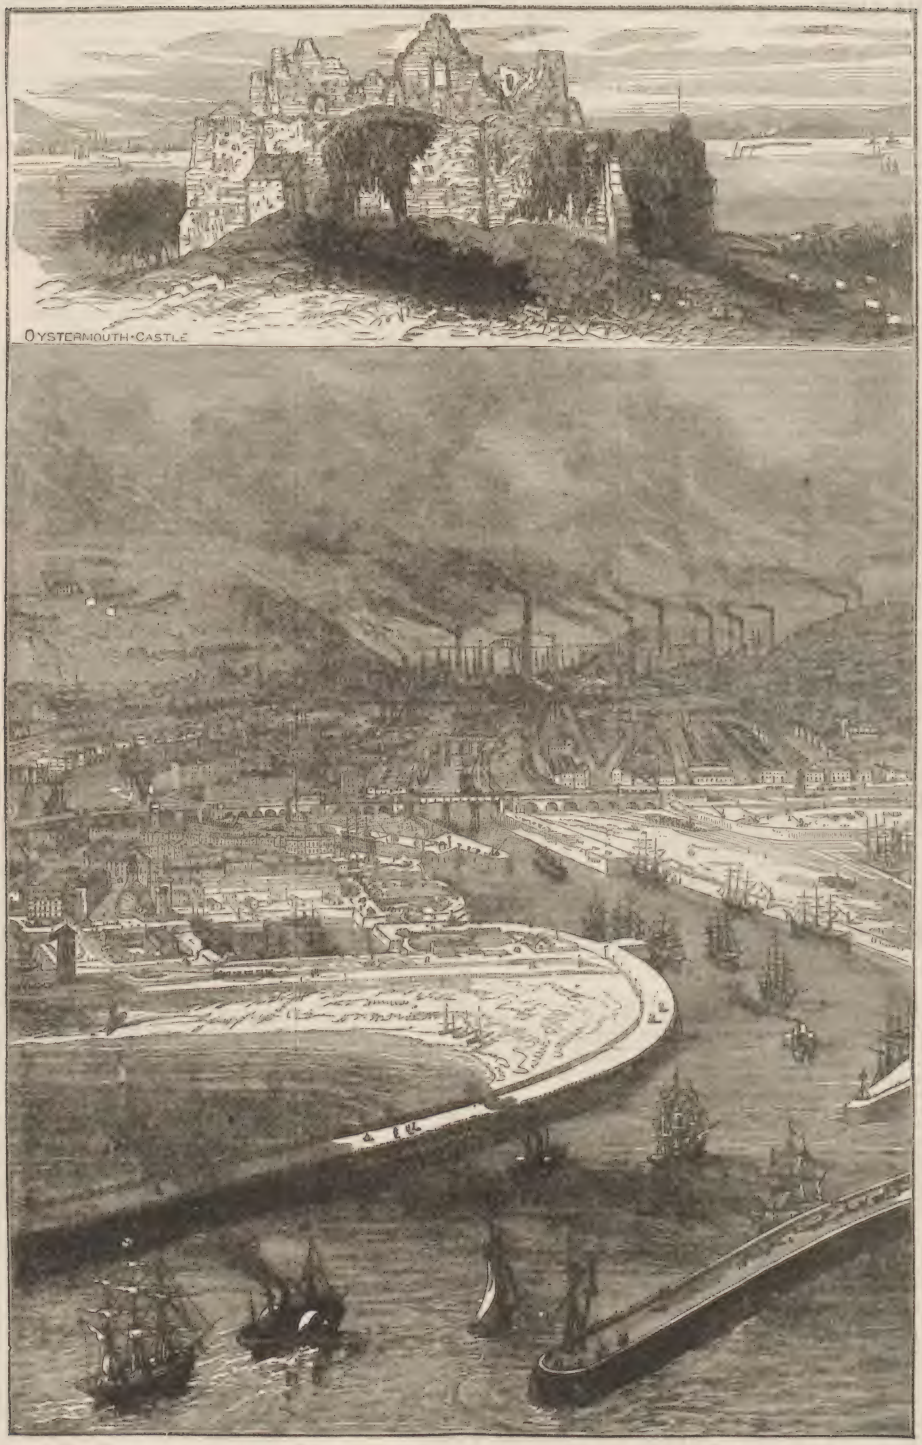

"12, Lister-street, Darnall, near Sheffield,
"Sept. 2, 1881.

"Dear Sir,—I received the Melodeon safely, and I cannot express my admiration in words of so beautiful an instrument. I must say the last one I got of you gave satisfaction, and I was perfectly satisfied. But how this one can be manufactured for the money is a surprise to all that have seen it. I have tried several airs on it, which proved entirely satisfactory, for it is one of the finest instruments I ever saw. I shall acquaint my friends, so as to prevent others from losing so rare a chance, and doubt I can to extend the sale. With many thanks for your promptness and beautiful instrument, I remain, yours truly,
"W. H. Moonmorse."

"11, Eton-road, Woolwich, Sept. 9, 1881.

"Gentlemen,—The Melodeon arrived quite safe, and gives entire satisfaction. I am exceedingly pleased with it, and think it is all it is represented, and more than my greatest expectation. Shall do all I can to extend the sale.—Yours respectfully, John Lewis."

N.B.—As the demand for this Instrument is expected to be very great, the early return of Coupons will prevent undue delay in delivery, as the Coupons will be taken in rotation as they arrive. No Melodeon will be sent in any case without Coupon, unless our full retail price is sent—namely, 25s. All letters to be addressed to Messrs. CAMPBELL and CO., Musical Instrument Makers, 103, Trongate, Glasgow.

SWANSEA, VISITED THIS WEEK BY THE PRINCE AND PRINCESS OF WALES.

IRISH LAND BILL EXTINGUISHES PARNELL & Co

THE BITER BIT. A HINT FOR PARNELL'S TENANTS

THE WALESES WELCOME TO WALES

BRIGHTER DAYS FOR OLD IRELAND

THE SHOWMAN

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN,—

Here we are again, ye see! The Gale has not blown our Show down. Nor has it damaged any London Show. On the contrary, the October hurricane has only braced up my brother Showmen. Playhouses are springing up like mushrooms. Each week sees a new theatre open. My well-preserved old friend the Duke of Oldport creases his wicked face into a wrinkled smile, and digs decrepit young Lord Furbelow in the ribs, and his Lordship limply answers with a meaning wink, for both rejoice at the happy hunting-grounds that are spreading before them in the shape of accessible green-rooms. Now, really, Gentlemen of the Middlesex Bench of Magistracy, if you will still hold the rod over the back of Saint Bignell, and persist in depriving the Trocadéro of music on moral grounds, I must beg of ye to be consistent, and to stimulate the rather lenient old pantaloons of the Lord Chamberlain's office into a somewhat closer inspection of the region known as "Behind-the-Scenes." If coroneted sparks, aged and adolescent, are to be prohibited from congregating under the roof of the old Argyll, why should they be not only permitted, but encouraged to gather round the slenderly clothed ladies of the chorus and ballet? Granted—that in too many instances it is but a case of Swine worshipping at the feet of Circe (after BRITON RIVIERE'S famous picture); but, "Goodness Gracious!" isn't there many and many a sweet, innocent Little Red Riding Hood who toils all the way from the heights of Camden Town and Brixton to the theatre every night to earn a clean and honest pittance for herself and family? I know any pleading for the safeguarding of these hard-working girls does but whet the appetite of his Grace for "more"—I am aware that the Earl of Duckandrake will no more be deterred from leasing a theatre for harem-scarem purposes than will the hoary old speculator who has made his money in the City—but I think I am, in this theatre-growing age, fairly entitled to ask the Lord Chamberlain to keep a keener eye upon each playhouse, both behind and before the curtain, prior to licensing them. For some Managers, innocent souls! appear to fancy their License covers license. Still, we have much to be thankful for in Theatrical London. Don't "The Lights o' London" lighten our darkness? Isn't there a mirth-moving "Half-Way House" to drop into? And doesn't Nelly Farren adroitly wave the Showman's rod in Burnand's rollicking Gaiety burlesque of "Dick Whittington" before the most laughter-lifting panorama of the Lord Mayor's Show that has ever been painted?

We're landed once more in the City of London, ye see! Thursday, Oct. 13, is a date worth reverting to. Happening to take a constitutional about noon that day on the Victoria Embankment, I chanced to see a pretty sight. A comely little girl threw a nosegay at an elderly gentleman in an open carriage. The flowers just missed him and the beaming lady by his side. But he rewarded the thrower with a smile that she will remember, I warrant, for a lifetime. The hale, bright-eyed gentleman was Mr. Gladstone (to whom I here mentally doff my beaver again); and I shouldn't be surprised if the young girl's simple tribute is cherished in the Premier's memory when the loud cheers of the Guildhall are forgotten. Gild'all, did I say (Beg pardon, really; but I've just been inoculated with a course of puns in the Gaiety burlesque). No; not quite all! Mr. Gladstone took the gilt off the Irish Land League: would I could add he wiped the guilt from this ill-League body! But, at any rate, before he slipped between the sheets that night, "Irish Land Bill" had the satisfaction of knowing that, in committing Mr. Charles Stewart Parnell to Kilmainham, he had effectually put the extinguisher upon the tawdry light of the Land League!

Our next picture, Ladies and Gentlemen, will, I trust, bring the ill-League-ality of Mr. Parnell's teaching home to the illustrious prisoner in Kilmainham himself. Christened Charles Stewart, Mr. Parnell may, perhaps, have taken in at the pores some of those peculiar notions of meum and tuum for which the Royal Family of Stuarts were renowned. But Mr. Parnell has, at the same time, the advantage of being himself an Irish Landlord. On the principle, then, of sauce for the goose being sauce for the gander, each tenant on the Avonmore estate of Mr. Parnell should have his answer ready when the agent applies for the rent: "Me rint, is it? Be jabers, doesn't the masther tell us to pay no rint?"

But, Ladies and Gentlemen, I see the dawn of a brighter day for Ireland. This cold-blooded agitation of Mr. Parnell has done a gross injustice to a nation, at heart the most generous and lovable in the world. The reaction must come. Common gratitude (in which quality no true Irishman was ever bankrupt) will in time bring Paddy to acknowledge with enthusiasm the greatness of the legislative boon Mr. Gladstone and Mr. Bright have conferred on Ireland in the Irish Land Act. With the revival of Industry, the Sun of Prosperity will shine once more on a gladdened land. And the sons of England and Ireland will shake hands with that heartiness of grip which should be proper to us whose forefathers fought shoulder to shoulder on many a glorious field of battle.

So the Prince and Princess have actually evisited Wales! "Indeed to goodness," our loyal, quick-tempered brethren of the Principality tuned the harp to a right hearty chord of welcome when the Prince and Princess opened the new docks at Swansea on Tuesday. Connoisseur of dames, H.R.H. will, I know, agree with me that Welshwomen are among the handsomest in this island of lovely women. Their clumsy, sugar-loaf hats don't hide their beauty; nor their long cloaks. And the Welsh tongue! Well, being a married man, the Prince probably knows how a lady's tongue can wag at times. But, let him only stroll through a Welsh Market, and I'll back he'll admit there's a clatter-clack-clack-clatter surpassing even the clatter of "Home, Sweet Home!" CODLIN.

REMARKABLE RESULTS from the REV. E. J. SILVERTON'S REMEDIES for DEAFNESS and ILL-HEALTH.

The Rev. E. J. SILVERTON'S celebrated Ear Trumpet literally gives hearing at once to the deaf. During the past twelve years no less than 12,000 of these instruments have been sold, and in every case have given the greatest satisfaction.

His Ear Specific is the only medicine which removes deafness, noises, and offensive discharge in the ears. His Aural Remedy goes at once to the root of the disease, and removes the cause.

When, however, the tympanum of the ear is broken, an artificial "drum" has to be introduced, and this marvellous surgical operation Mr. Silverton accomplishes repeatedly. The ears are also examined without pain or inconvenience by the Silver Auriscope or Speculum.

Mr. Silverton has also been very successful in his manner of treating cases of broken down health. The idea of supplying a Nutritious Food with his Enfreem or Energiser is exceedingly happy; the two things going together act splendidly on the delicate constitution. Thousands of sufferers for ill enough to be confined to their room and not well enough to be out find in this double remedy a restorative that has always been proved over and over again in cases of the most hopeless character. After a short course the patient begins to hunger, and goes on improving until well. It is not too much to say that in several cases where death seemed inevitable, the patient has been raised, as it were, from the grave. Mr. Silverton holds letters of the most convincing nature from persons who have taken the remedies with unmistakable success. There are few ailments which do not succumb to this great Restorative, over which Consumption frequently disappears as the general health and tone of the system improves. Indigestion, constipation, sick headache, decline, consumption, asthma, coughs, colds, and a thousand other ills are removed by a course of the Food of Foods and Medicine Energiser; indeed, no person out of health should fail giving this marvellous restorative a fair trial. It is true to say they do not cure all who take them, but it is scarcely possible for any one to do so without benefit.

The Rev. E. J. SILVERTON (assisted by a physician) is now for the examination of patients daily at his consulting-rooms from Eleven to Two, Saturdays excepted. No charge is made for consultation at these hours. For consultation at other hours, appointments should be made by letter. Country patients should embrace Monday and Tuesday mornings, if possible, and they can consult him at other hours in consulting rooms by eleven o'clock. ALL MEN. It may be greatly to the advantage of every reader of this paper, lady or gentleman, young or old, to read the Valuable Hints on that most important subject, the Cultivation and Restoration of Hair, either in producing Whiskers and Moustachios, Curing Baldness and Scanty Partings, or Strengthening Weak Hair, and preventing its falling, which are given in an abridged Treatise, entitled "Culture of the Hair," by John Latreille, Finchley-road, Wallworth, London, who will send it by post, free of charge, to all persons forwarding their name and address. This Treatise will amply repay perusal, as it informs readers of what will really produce hair, gives the most positive proof (with a £500 guarantee of genuineness), and exposes many glaring impostions of worthless preparations, lately so numerous, and useless Recipes, disguised under the delusive name of Formula, forced upon the public by a variety of specious pretences, and invariably disappointing purchasers.
